

Monday Morning New Haven

Dear Caroline

I wrote you a long letter yesterday which I could not send as I turned the ink instead of the sand upon it and I have only time to scuddle this morning a few words. I received yours and Anne's letters and was rejoiced to hear Maria had got out again. The term I am glad to say will end in a little more than 4 weeks and the examination will begin in little more than 3 and lasts a week. This examination is for our degrees and I shall take every pains to pass well. I hope this hot weather will go off soon for it has made me almost sick and I have grown as poor as a crow. I shall be glad enough when vacation comes and I do not mean to let it slip off so unprofitable as the last one but mean to take every kind of active exercise. besides studying enough to prevent my brains from getting mouldy. There is nothing new going on here and the 4th of July was celebrated as usual. We have just finished with Silliman's lectures which were very interesting Especially the two last upon the deluge in which he attacked Prof Stewart in grand style and almost called him an old fool. I hope you will all take care of yourselves this hot weather as every one here are complaining of bad feelings that Priscilla is well again I hope before Christine I have got some plans in my head to employ me for a year or two after I get out of college which I shall mature in vacation. Pray write all the news for I have not heard from Weymouth or Boston since you wrote. We have commenced studying Astronomy which I like very well and it would be quite useful if we had practical Astronomy joined with it however I understand quite well and recite very well Have you heard from Lucetta since I was at home I should think the burning of Pennsylvania hall must have thrown her off her indifference I have not time to write more as the mail closes in a few minutes I will write to Anne at Weymouth and to Warren if I have time give my love to all I am your truly H. E. Weston
